'Come Out and Come Home!'

Come Out and Come Home, the Pacific Center's 30th Anniversary Block Party and its first major anniversary celebration is slated for Saturday, October 11 from 11:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

The Block Party will feature entertainment, community exhibits, food and appearances by local community leaders. It will be held at the Pacific Center and just down the street on Derby Street Between Telegraph Avenue and Dana Street.

"October 11 is National Coming Out Day and we couldn't think of a better opportunity to invite all our friends – past and current – to celebrate with us," said Michelle Dixon, Pacific Center 30th Anniversary Chair.

Theater Rhinoceros Partners with the Pacific Center

Theatre Rhinoceros, the longest-running and most acclaimed LGBT theatre company in the United States, is the first Bay Area not-for-profit to become a Pacific Center 30th Anniversary Partner.

As part of the partnership, "The Rhino" is offering single-ticket and season subscription "discount/donation" to Pacific Center volunteers, clients and friends with a portion of the proceeds coming right back to the Center. (See box, page 5, for information and purchase code.)

"We wanted to join with the Pacific Center as it celebrates this milestone year," said John Fisher, the Rhino Artistic Director, "and we couldn't think of a better way of partnering with the Center than by offering these discounts as a means of raising money for the Center."

The Pacific Center receives its operating funds from private donations, corporate donations, the Boston Foundation, The California Endowment, the City of Berkeley, County of Alameda, State of California, Evelyn & Walter Haas, Jr. Fund, San Francisco Foundation and the Horizons Foundation.

'Thank You'

A great big thank you to Front Desk volunteer Saloma Clarence and Clinic intern Dr. Carl Norris for all their great work in painting and sprucing up the bathrooms and meeting rooms at the Pacific Center.

Your efforts are greatly appreciated by all who use this wonderful community center.

You are an inspiration and a great example of community spirit.

Pacific Center would like to extend its thanks to several individuals and an organization that have helped out our front garden.

Jim Montgomery and the Green Faerie Farm here in Berkeley donated the manure/mulch mixture that you see being spread over the front garden. Special thanks go to the goats (Aleah and Oolong), chickens, ducks, rabbits, and pigeons that made the manure.

Board member Scott Vachon made a very generous donation to Pacific Center to help maintain the garden. His contribution will buy decorative mulch and groundcover plants, so that the garden will have a handsome "blanket" of plants and bark that will last for many years. Look for the groundcover plants to go in this fall when the rainy season will help give them a good start – and please don't step on them!

The Taylor family, East Bay residents, donated a bag of gravel to cover over a pedestrian path in the garden. And finally, the San Pablo/Ashby location of Orchard Supply Hardware contributed a garden trowel, and an eight-foot tool rack to store our garden tools.

Please join the staff of Pacific Center in expressing thanks to these businesses and individuals.

Board Transitions

In June, the board of directors elected a new slate of officers. June is our normal month for elections and in this case, was a time for the departures of two of our hard working board members. Jeff Malkasian, past President for four years stepped down (see Jeff's letter in this issue on page 3) and Tim Zariczjy, Vice President stepped down from the board at the conclusion of his term.

Both Jeff and Tim gave a lot over the years to the Pacific Center and our community and they will be missed. Marty Selnick, who was our Secretary for the last year, remains on the board and will continue with her work on the Fundraising Committee.

The new officers of the board are:

- Ralph Thomas, President
- Michelle Dixon, Vice President
- Brian Johnson, Treasurer
- Scott Vachon, Secretary

If you have any questions, comments or input for the board please let us know by contacting the Pacific Center at 510-548-8283 x521 or stop by the Pacific Center booth at East Bay Pride on September 7th.

About Our Mailing List

The Pacific Center does not lend, sell or give away its mailing list to any outside organization. However, the Pacific Center does allow organizations that are sponsored and operate under the Pacific Center umbrella to mail announcements to the Pacific Center mailing list. If you do not want to receive mailings from PC sponsored organizations please let us know. "Attention: Mailing List."

C.E.O. Corner

By Frank Gurucharri, CEO

The Pacific Center has certainly had its ups and downs over its 30 years. But if we stand back and take a broad look at its history, we see a common thread. The Center is always strongest when it is close to the people it serves and it loses vitality when it isn't. This is an important lesson to keep in mind today.

One of the most important ways the Center stays close to the people it serves is through the volunteers who work at the Center. We are truly a volunteer run organization with over 180 non-paid volunteer staff. Almost all of the Pacific Center's direct services are provided by volunteers. The Board of Directors are volunteers. Our two community advisory groups (LOUD VOICES for our Youth Program and the faculty for our clinic) are volunteers.

The counselors in the mental health clinic, the faculty that supervise them and the instructors who conduct weekly workshops for them are all volunteers. The staff at the front desk is volunteers. Volunteer facilitators lead the peer groups. The participants on our Speaker's Bureau panels are volunteers. Volunteers take care of the yard and keep the Center clean. A pair of volunteers is currently redecorating the interior of the building and teams of volunteers are responsible for numerous community events and celebrations.

Volunteering at the Center is a personally healing and empowering experience. It helps LGBT individuals come out, come home, and regain emotional and social health. It helps them participate with satisfaction in relationships and feel accepted in our community. It helps them become empowered and learn to function productively as full hu-

Outgoing President

By Jeff Malkasian

It is hard to believe that it has been five years since I first walked through the doors of the Pacific Center. Now, it is time for me to conclude my tenure with the board and pass the reigns of Presidency on to Ralph Thomas.

As I was reflecting back, a few highlights came to mind. We have experienced five years of growth and stability, continuing as the third oldest GLBTQ community center in the United States. I have had the opportunity to work with and learn from some dynamic people over the past few years. We have watched the Center grow from a business trying to keep the doors open to a business looking towards the future. Not only are we looking towards the future of the Center itself, but also the future of our community and how we will evolve. I have watched our focus change from the Center itself, to the community that we serve.

I am so impressed with the people that make the Pacific Center happen. Each and every donor, volunteer and staff member exudes passion. It is that passion that will insure our longevity.

President's Message

By Ralph Thomas

Invisible Community

Well, maybe our community in the East Bay isn't really invisible, but it's pretty hard to find. We know there are a lot of LGBT folks in the East Bay – we're everywhere, but where do we go to find "our" community?

The Pacific Center has started to pull our community together and find out what we need in order to build and create a sense of community and a place for community. (If you haven't heard about this effort, read the article "Planning For Our Future" by Frank Gurucharri in the Spring 2003 Pacific Currents.) Thousands of people have come out and/or been helped by the Pacific Center over the past 30 years. Many of the same people came forward with assistance when the Center has been in trouble. But there are also many that have been through the Center's doors that we have lost touch with.

We want to use this thirtieth anniversary year to reach out and reconnect with the many people that have a history with the Pacific Center. The Board of Directors is doing the planning, with the help of a few other volunteers, for our October 11th Block Party (see the Block Party announcements on page 1 and 8). This is the first major event we have tried to put on in many years, and we need your help to make it successful. We need help on the day of the event as well as people to help with planning, publicity and finding sponsors. If you can help, you can contact me via email at or 510-548-8283 x521. Even if you can't help, plan to stop by on October 11th to enjoy the fun.

Staff Profile

Michael Drennan
Administrative and Volunteer
Services Coordinator

By Dan Tussey

The Pacific Center has numerous volunteers that support and supplement the work of paid staff. Michael Drennan started as a volunteer, working the front desk for a year. Now, staffing the front desk with volunteers is a part of his job as Administrative and Volunteer Services Coordinator. There seems to be no end to his job description, and he admits it's a catch-all job.

Those who know Michael find him to be a "sweetheart" and a nice guy who is always ready with a smile and the willingness to solve problems. In addition to scheduling and training all volunteers and group facilitators, he handles payroll, bills, invoicing for grant monies, orders supplies, and generally keeps the building running. If you need a key or money for the mail carrier, Michael's your man. Michael is also quick to respond to issues related to building security and safety.

People like to mistake Michael's accent as British, but he's actually an Aussie. He grew up in Brisbane, Australia where the good climate enabled a healthy childhood filled with swimming, running, and playing tennis. Now living in Oakland, Michael shares stories from his days as a flight attendant "back in the day." Those days and current days are filled with a wide variety of people, which Michael loves.

He especially likes working with and on behalf of LGBT people. He feels that he spent the bulk of his life in a heterosexist world, and he now enjoys immersing himself in his own community, with people like himself. In addition, he is pleased to have the opportunity to work closely with CEO Frank Gurucharri in planning the organization's direction and future. He is excited about the possibility of the Pacific Center moving to a bigger space one day.

Anniversary Block Party

“So many of our friends, clients and volunteers came to the Pacific Center in the first place because of some issue related to the coming out process, said Frank Gurucharri, the Center’s executive director. This party is going to be a lot of fun. I can’t wait to see all the faces, old and new!”

The Block Party is being planned with a special emphasis on diversity. It is also being designed as a family-friendly event. Aside from a minimal donation for food, the Block party will be free and open to the public.

For more information on the Block Party or to volunteer to help, contact the Pacific Center at 510-548-8283 or go to the 30th Anniversary page on our website,

Rhinoceros Partners with PC

In addition to the ticket “discount/donation” plan, discussions have already begun for the theater to host a benefit performance for the Pacific Center during the 2003-2004 season.

“Working together is what it’s all about,” said Scott Vachon, Pacific Center fundraising chair. “This partnership means needed funds for our programs, greater East Bay exposure for The Rhino, and great entertainment for everyone affiliated with the Pacific Center.

Recently, we spent a birthday weekend with a close friend and I asked him about his coming out experience. As a young man in southern California, he experienced the fun and pains of coming out. After a few years, he felt that he needed focus and direction in his life. He went to his local GLBTQ community center and worked with a counselor there to set some goals and prepare for his future. Today, he is successful in his field and one of the most considerate and generous people I know. That short time spent at his community center had a monumental impact on his life today.

After hearing this story, I felt really good about my time volunteering with the Pacific Center because I know that tomorrow when someone needs the services at the Center, we will be there.

Thank you for your support over the past few years and please continue. You may not need the Center today, but someone you are yet to meet will. It is the individual volunteer time and donations that make everything possible.

To the Center and the community, I wish fair winds and following seas.

The Pacific Center Needs You!

Volunteering is a Great Way to Give

There are many ways to help the Pacific Center.

“Our volunteers and donors – along with our dedicated staff – are the lifeblood of everything we do,” said Ralph Thomas, president of the Pacific Center board of directors. “In addition to our many services and programs, the Pacific Center also offers golden opportunities for everyone to support our work in valuable ways.”

PC Welcomes New Clinic Interns!

Five new interns joined the Pacific Center clinic in July and, after having completed an intensive two-week orientation period, join the five interns already serving Pacific Center clients. We also have another five interns joining us starting in September.

The Pacific Center clinic provides counseling and mental health services to approximately 400 members of the LGBT community every year. In conjunction with the Pacific Center staff and professional mental health faculty, the interns form the backbone of the Center's clinic services.

"They bring a wealth of experience and education to the center, which often includes previous volunteer and clinic experience," said David Dao, Pacific Center HIV Coordinator. "They are integral to what makes the clinic work."

Each intern commits to a year-long relationship with the Center and during that time works hand-in-hand with a member of the Pacific Center Clinic faculty. All faculty members are licensed and have degrees in their own specialties, whether it be social work, marriage and family therapy, or psychology.

Welcome and thanks to our new and returning interns: The new Interns are:

Howard Curtis	Jennifer Strong
Nancy Jessup	Maia Huang
Heidi Joshi	Suzanna Layton
Marco Lozano	Kimberly Durham
Ebony Williams	Stephanie Morgan

The returning Interns are:

Nicki Koethner
Bird Vitko
